

Certificate in English for Construction

OVERVIEW

The Certificate in English for Construction is emphasising on topics that reflect the latest developments in constructions and relevant to students' needs and employees in training at work.

PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES:

The programme learning objectives

- help students to improve their English communication skills in the construction industry
- give students a more comprehensive understanding of the construction industry as well as equip them with useful soft skills when dealing with clients and employer

ASSESSMENT METHODS:

70% Coursework & 30% Examination

DURATION COMPONENTS:

Classroom Training Hours: 30 Hours Per Module

MODULE SYNOPSIS:

CEC201 English for Construction I

The module is designed to build upon the language and communication skills covered in the subject English in the Construction. It underlines the need to be able to select suitable registers of English in particular contexts and concentrates on the strategies available to speakers and writers of English when communicating in a professional capacity

This module aims to equip students with practicing English language skills used in the construction industry.

The learning objective of this module is to:

- improve the use of the English language confidently in term of fluency
- use grammatical structure precisely and widen their existing vocabulary
- demonstrate an up to date knowledge and understanding of communication skills
- expand listening skills when listening for information and keywords
- interact confidently with overseas and English-speaking people

Upon completion of this module, students are expected to be able to use proper language in handling various contexts of situations that they might come across in the construction industry. Students will also obtain knowledge of the vocabulary needed to communicate in their workplace

PROGRAMME OUTCOMES:

Upon completion of the course, the learners will be able to:

- use proper language in handling various contexts of situations that they might come across in the construction industry.
- obtain knowledge of the vocabulary needed to communicate in their workplace

AWARDING BODIES:

Global School of Technology and Management

NUMBER OF MODULE:

2

TOTAL CONTACT HOURS:

60

CEC202 English for Construction II

The module is designed for the student who has completed the English for Construction 1 or has an elementary knowledge of general English.

The learning objective of this module is to equip students with the language skills on the latest development in construction at a higher level of accuracy and appropriacy. The topics emphasised on the latest development in construction that is immediately relevant to the students' needs.

Upon completion of this module, students will be able to:

- Use accurate and appropriate English in handling various contexts of situations that they might come across in the construction industry.
- Obtain knowledge of the vocabulary needed to communicate in their workplace, clients or employer.